IN CONSIDERING the East Indian Question imbe discussed. The first, is the attitude of the British Government towards such an enterprise, and this is, that they shall retain a judicial jurisdiction over the immigrants after their arrival and settlement in the Hawaiian Kingdom. This condition, we understand, they hold as a settled matter of policy, and will not even discuss any proposition for its modification. Such a condition settles for us, once for all, the question of obtaining laborers from India. No patriotic Hawaiian can for . .noment harbor the though? of a divided jurisdiction in the Kingdom. If our government is worth having it is by its supreme authority in the land; let the final authority be once tampered with, and what is there left entitled to respect or capable of carrying out its own

No intelligent man of business, acquainted with our affairs, can advise such an innovation or help foresceing, if it were tried, a hopeless confusion of conflicting interests which would be injurious if not fatal to our prosperity. It is easy to get up memorials with an imposing list of names, but such documents are notoriously weak and unconvincing; they prove nothing and are not even evidence that the signers really wish what they petition for. Doubtless many of our planters would like to try East Indian laborers, but is there a single one who would take them subject to the condition mentioned above?

The second point, if the above difficulty could be disposed of, is the question of health. Judging from late advices, disease is not uncommon in ship loads of laborers from India. We are unable to speak definitely on this point, but it is question that would have to be pretty closely answered before an enterprise so deeply affecting the interests of the nation could be properly tak-

PAPAIROU PLANTATION, Hilo, Sept 19th, 1879.

Editor Pacific Commercial Advertiser Sm:-In your issue of the 13th inst. you express surprise that the cane planters on these Islands do not obtain insurance on their growing crops. We will say as regards this plantation, that we have tried our utmost to procure insurance on our growing canes, but have been unable to find any company represented in Honolulu willing to take the risk. If you know of any reliable company, issuing policies

House Servants.

DEAR MR. EDITOR .- I am not one that might be termed a newspaper nuisance—this is my first effort. I have a real grievance, and must at least see it in print, Jonathan (that's our husband) says it will Subscribers whose subscriptions are due for the | do no good. Talk it up, he says, with my neigh-ADVERTISER, are respectfully requested to settle the same | bors ; bless me, I have done it, until my neighbors are afraid to see me, and all about servants, and especially cooks. I am no politician, and none of our family belong to the Board of Immigration. I don't care where a good cook comes from, or where a poor one goes to; neither do I know any thing about our laws or servant and master's Act. But it seems to me by the servant's actions that the Acts are pretty much on their side.

I never speak of myself much less write, but I know I am kind and considerate to my servantsespecially the cook. Never speak above my breath members of the staff. The Alert we learn, sails and always in a kind and suggestive way. Often for China to-day, being one of the relief with tears in my eyes, which have no more effect on them than sweet oil on a graven image; I have had any quantity of cooks within the past few years -some fair, others poor-but the majority worth-only been cooking for a few days I am perhaps a little stiff, although respectful in my answers. Give the number of little ones, age and appetite, and say that the pot must boil three times a day. This is " too muchee," and away they go. After having done duty in the cook house for ten days or more, I begin to wilt, and ready to drown a few of the young ones and accept two meals a day, and no lock on New Acts, New Songs, New Feats of Tumday, its my business and my work. I cannot ask the cook to come from his work (for be it known he is also running a coffee shop of his own) in the middle

But it was no use. He broke ever so many more dishes in his hurry to get away. His coffee shop was unprofitable to me in many ways. He never got home to cook the dinner until just about time to put it on the Fort Street, McIntyre's Block, table. It was never half cooked-and all after my raising his wages from $5 to $6 per week."

This was my experience over and over, and although fact ladies never do) or our troubles with Chinese servants, I was just giving a California lady an inkling of my troubles, in this respect, a short time ago, who in the most abrupt way stopped me by saying: "They serve you right, I am glad of it. When people do not know how to treat their servants they should be served so." This took me a back, for I did think I had treated my servant over well. "Yes," she said, "you housewives in Honolulu try I am told, how much you can outbid each other i migration scheme, two important points must be | your monthly pay to your cooks and servants. Think ser matters of expense, wages and contracts need jt no small honor to be able to see you nay more then -or permit bim, which is all the same -so that he can engage in some other business, taking your time, and not unlikely your pantry is taxed more or less each time they leave. I told Jonathan what Mrs. B. said, and although an observant and quiet man in all other respects, he will get a little excited on cooks. He said, "Mrs. B. was quite right. In no other country would the people allow their cooks or servant to scamper round town four or five hours each day. It was neither just or honest and we never would have help until such practices were stopped. In California a cook or servant would not think of leaving the house in the day time without leave; in China,-which means also Hongkong .- they can neither leave night or day without permission; and any infraction from these rules does not mean a case in the police court, when the master has to pay whether he wins or looses; but a more pointed and less costly mode of justice is dealt out.

Now, dear me! I had forgotten I was writing for a paper, I have not yet said what I want to see advocated in your paper on this subject. We need East India labor for our house servants. Turn these thieving Chinamen out and into the fields. Have laws passed that servants cannot leave their employment (unless in special cases) during working hours. laws now stand (Jonathan says) a man or whole day, if not two days, and you cannot arrest him under a contract but that you can sue for damages. The damages and costs you may charge will make them more full next week. MRS. JONATHAN HAYNES.

A Moment of Fate. The Denver (Col.) Tribune tells the following thrilling story of the Grand Canon of Colorado : Charles May and his brother Robert in the spring of 1870 offered to pass railroad ties down the Arkansas from the mountain source. He says: "Our offer was accepted, when we started into the upper entrance of the canon with a large skiff, LIME, provided with six days provisions and 200 feet of rope, with which, by taking a running turn around some firmly planted object, we could lower our boat a hundred feet at a time. In this way, at the end of three days, having set adrift many hundred ties, we reached the entrance of Royal George. Here we discovered that an attempt to descend the first waterfall with two in the boat was certain destruction, and to return was impossible Accordingly, I determined to at least three men out of four to be met with are lower my brother down the fall in the boat. Then throwing aside my coat, bat the height of 100 or 200 feet only to be compelled to return to try some other way. At length, canon side a foot or more.
